

Spain Study Visa

Application pack — Embassy of Spain in Tunis (BLS)

Intensive Spanish course at Estudio Sampere → Master's degree in Spain, September 2027

Applicant: [Nom et prénom]

Version 2 — 26 September 2026 — corrected after a four-reviewer mock consular review

How to use this pack

- Text highlighted in [yellow] is a personal fact only you can supply. Replace every highlighted blank, then remove the highlight.
- Every fact must be true and backed by a document in your file. The consulate checks bank statements, school letters and employer letters, and a false statement leads to refusal (art. 54.8.b).
- Each Spanish text is followed by an English translation page. That page is for your understanding only: don't print or submit it.
- Print each letter on its own page. Before printing, delete the section title and the blue guidance box above it. Sign in blue ink and date it.
- Part 1 explains the file and the review results. Part 2 lists what only you can get. Parts 3 to 11 are what you prepare and submit.

Contents

1. Analysis and mock consular review results
2. Your to-do list: what only you can get
3. Final checklist, in the order BLS wants it
4. Your stay dates: the 45 extra days, money, insurance and TIE
5. Motivation letter (carta de motivación, Spanish) + English translation
6. Cover letter and document index (carta de presentación, Spanish) + English translation
7. Parent's sponsorship letter (attestation de prise en charge, French)
8. Text for the doctor: medical certificate (French)
9. Email to Estudio Sampere: requesting the visa letter (Spanish) + English translation
10. Email requesting a national-visa appointment (French)
11. Interview preparation, and the final check before you submit

1. Analysis and review results

This pack is built from four sources: the embassy's official requirements page, an agency checklist for Tunis, two posts from the "BLS visa Espagne TUNISIE" group (June–July 2026), and Spain's immigration regulation (Real Decreto 1155/2024). Version 2 then went through a mock review by four simulated reviewers: a visa officer, a legal and BLS-counter checker, a native Spanish and French reviewer, and a skeptical "find every reason to refuse" reviewer. They are simulations, not embassy staff, and their figures (income bands, 20 hours a week, exam result delays) are estimates rather than published rules.

1.1 What the mock review found

Reviewer	Verdict on version 1
Visa officer	More documents requested, leaning towards refusal. Reason: "finalidad no acreditada" (the purpose isn't proven). Scores out of 5: documents 4, money 3, letters 3, believable purpose 2, coherent plan 2.
Skeptical reviewer	Medium refusal risk. Medium-high if your level is A2, you're unemployed, or there's a recent large deposit.
Legal and BLS check	Mostly sound, but two legal errors and six must-fix points.
Language reviewer	The plan convinces, but the motivation letter was too long and read like a template.

Everything they asked to fix is corrected in this version. The single biggest risk that remains is one only you can remove: proof of the master's and a certificate of your current Spanish level (Part 2).

1.2 What every approved file has in common

Pattern	What it means for you
Complete and in order	BLS checks your file against its own sheet at the counter. Most setbacks come from a missing document or translation, not from the applicant's profile. Stack each item: original → copy → Spanish translation → copy of the translation.
Apostille + sworn translation	Every Tunisian public document is apostilled by an authorised notary, then translated by a sworn translator, apostille included . If the translator isn't a sworn translator accredited by Spain's foreign ministry (MAEC), the translation needs its own apostille too. Every document not in Spanish is translated , including your CIN and bank statements.
Money blocked at the bank	A student file at the bank (dossier scolaire) with authorisation to transfer to Spain, and a certificate stating the money is irrevocably blocked. The agency uses €700 a month (the legal minimum is €600), counted over your whole stay plus the trip home. Only you or your parents can be sponsors.
Recent documents	Medical certificate, birth certificate, B3, payslips, attestation de travail and blocking certificate: all less than 3 months old on the day of your appointment.
Paid studies	Fees paid in full, with a letter from the school confirming it received the money. An invoice alone isn't enough.
Short supporting documents	A short motivation letter, a CV and a language certificate.
Interview	The group says interviews are rare, but the officer warned that language-course files do get called in. Prepare Part 11.

1.3 How your case differs from the posts

The posts and the agency checklist were written for university admissions. You are applying for a language school, which the regulation treats as a separate category: “actividad formativa”, art. 52.1.e.2º. Four consequences:

1. The school must be accredited by Instituto Cervantes and the course must be in person. The school's letter must say so, with the hours per week in 60-minute hours (Part 9).
2. The officer will ask: “Is the language course the real purpose?” The answer is a chain you can prove: certified current level → intensive course → SIELE/DELE → named master's that requires B2 → September 2027. Proof of the master's is what turns this chain from a promise into a fact.
3. The permit lasts one year at most, allows only one extension, and gives no automatic right to work (art. 55.1, 55.5, 57).
4. Switching to the master's from inside Spain is legally possible (art. 54.1 ¶2 and 54.3). Once admitted, you file a new higher-education application at the immigration office (oficina de extranjería), or the university files it for you (art. 54.6). Deadline: at least 2 months before your current permit expires and at least 2 months before the master's starts. The alternative is to return to Tunisia and apply at the embassy. Your letter states the in-Spain route and a fallback. Version 1 of this pack wrongly said the in-Spain switch was impossible.

1.4 Why files get refused, and how this pack prevents it

Reason for refusal	Prevented by
Purpose not proven (the officer's #1 reason)	Proof of the master's and a certified Spanish level (Part 2); motivation letter built on them (Part 5)
Missing apostille or translation	Checklist (Part 3) with a translation and an apostille column for every item
Too little money, or an unexplained deposit	€700 × months of the whole stay + trip home (Part 4); 6 months of statements; proof of source for any large deposit
Insurance not accepted	Health insurance from an insurer authorised in Spain, with SNS-equivalent cover, no co-payment and no waiting period, covering the whole stay
Medical certificate invalid	Exact wording (Part 8), legalised by the regional health directorate, less than 3 months old
School not eligible	Visa letter with Cervantes accreditation, in-person attendance and hours per week (Part 9)
Inconsistent dates	One rule: course dates on the school letter; stay dates everywhere else (Part 4)
Late application	Submit at least 2 months before the course starts

1.5 Where the sources disagree, and what to do

- Insurance. The embassy requires health insurance from an insurer authorised in Spain, with cover equivalent to Spain's public health system (SNS). The agency offers travel insurance (about 500 TND). Follow the embassy.
- Amount. Legal minimum €600 a month; the agency uses €700. Block €700 a month over the whole stay, plus the trip home.
- Accommodation. Not required by law. The agency asks for 3 months; two reviewers found 1 month thin (“where will you live afterwards?”). Book at least 3 months, or prepay the whole stay, which also reduces the money you must block. A cheaper city (Salamanca, Alicante) helps.

- Flight. Not required, but your money must cover the trip home. Add a return reservation (not a purchased ticket) that matches your stay dates.
- Bank statements. The agency says no translation; the official rule says every document not in Spanish must be translated. Translate them.
- Appointment. Confirmed on the embassy's contact page: national-visa appointments are requested at emb.tunez.cit@maec.es (Part 10).

2. Your to-do list: what only you can get

The reviewers agreed: these items decide whether the officer believes your plan. Nothing in the letters can replace them.

#	What to get	Why it matters
1	Proof of the master's: a pre-registration receipt (justificante de preinscripción), a conditional admission ("admisión condicionada a acreditar B2"), or at least an email from the programme coordinator confirming you're eligible and that B2 is required. Apply in the first admission rounds (often November to February).	The officer's #1 reason for refusal. Printed web pages alone don't prove anything.
2	A certificate of your current Spanish level: Instituto Cervantes de Túnez, a SIELE result, or Sampere's graded placement test.	A self-declared level counts as none. Rough guide from the officer: certified A2 fits 5–6 months; B1 fits 3–4 months; A0/A1 or an existing B2 is a red flag.
3	Choose the campus: Madrid, Salamanca or Alicante. Ideally the city of your target university, or a cheaper one.	An undecided campus makes the plan look unfinished.
4	The school's visa letter with hours per week in 60-minute hours (20 or more), in person, full-time, Cervantes-accredited, paid in full (use Part 9).	"20 lessons" of 50 minutes is only about 17 hours, which the officer would question.
5	Course dates: plan the course so your master's application fits. In-Spain route: file at least 2 months before your permit ends. Return route: finish by mid-May so you can apply in Tunis in time.	A July return with new medical, B3, payslips and blocking during peak season is risky.
6	Language exam: register for the SIELE (results within about 3 weeks) or an early DELE session.	DELE results take about 3 months, too late for most admissions. Registration also qualifies you for the one allowed extension (art. 55.5).
7	Money proof: the parent's income documents, 6 months of stamped statements, proof of source for any large deposit (sale deed, loan contract), the bank's transfer authorisation, and ideally evidence the family can also pay for the master's year.	The officer checks the sponsor's capacity, not just the balance.
8	An answer to "Why not the Instituto Cervantes in Tunis?" , based on true facts (hours per week, immersion, a certificate of hours already done in Tunis if you have one).	The officer will ask it. The letter (Part 5) and interview (Part 11) use your answer.

3. Final checklist (in BLS order)

Trad. = sworn Spanish translation (it must include the apostille). Apost. = apostille from an authorised notary, on the original first. “Conseillé” = recommended. “Si pas en ES” = translate only if not already in Spanish. For each item bring: original → copy → translation → copy of the translation.

Timing: submit at least 2 months before the course starts (course on 1 February 2027 → by 1 December 2026). Start with the B3, the bank file and the master's pre-registration: they take the longest. Request the appointment early (Part 10).

4. Your stay dates: the 45 extra days

By law, your permit starts 1 month before the course and ends 15 days after it (art. 55.2): “La vigencia de la autorización deberá comenzar con una antelación de un mes con respecto al comienzo de la actividad [...] La vigencia se extenderá quince días más allá de la finalización de la actividad.” You don’t need a special form, but you should request it clearly so the visa is issued with the right dates.

4.1 How to ask for them

1. Apply at least 2 months before the course starts. If you apply later, the permit may start on the day of approval instead of 1 month before.
2. On the visa form, enter your intended arrival date (up to 1 month before the course) and your intended length of stay (until the course end + 15 days).
3. In the cover letter, one sentence requests it, with a reason (already written in Part 6): “Les agradecería que la vigencia del visado abarcara del [fecha de llegada] al [fecha de fin del curso + 15 días]...”
4. Make every other document cover the same period: insurance, blocked money, accommodation (from arrival), flight reservation, sponsorship letter.
5. When you collect the passport, check the visa sticker (“desde / hasta”). If the dates are shorter, say so at the counter immediately.

4.2 The one date rule

Which dates	Where they go
Course dates (first class → last class)	The school’s letter, the payment confirmation, the motivation letter
Stay dates (arrival → course end + 15 days)	The visa form, insurance, blocked-money calculation, accommodation, flight reservation, sponsorship letter, cover letter request

4.3 Worked example

Item	Example (change it to your real dates)
Course	1 February – 25 June 2027
Stay (permit)	1 January – 10 July 2027 (about 6.3 months)
Blocked money	7 months × €700 = €4,900 , plus the return trip and any unpaid fees
Insurance	1 January – 10 July 2027
Submit the visa file	By 1 December 2026 at the latest
TIE (foreigner ID card)	Required, because the stay is over 6 months: apply at the police within 1 month of arriving (art. 54.9)
Master’s, in-Spain route	File at the oficina de extranjería by 10 May 2027 (2 months before the permit ends), with admission and fees paid
Master’s, return route	Back in Tunis and file at the embassy at least 2 months before September. A course ending by mid-May makes this realistic.

Trade-off: the 45 days help you settle in and sit the exam, but mean more money blocked, longer insurance, and a TIE if the stay exceeds 6 months.

5. Carta de motivación

About 280 words. Replace every blank with a true fact; delete any sentence you can't prove. If your Spanish is below B1, be ready to discuss the letter in French at an interview, or submit a French version with a sworn translation.

11. Interview preparation and final check

Language-course files are more likely to be called in. Your answers must match your documents exactly. Keep each answer to 2 or 3 sentences, and practise questions 1, 2, 12 and 13 in Spanish.

Likely question	What a strong answer contains
1. Pourquoi l'Espagne ?	The named master's, and a concrete reason for that field and that university.
2. Pourquoi un cours de langue et pas directement le master ?	The master's requires B2; your certified level is [X]; the course is the step that gets you there.
3. Pourquoi Estudio Sampere, et cette ville ?	Cervantes accreditation, exam preparation, and your personal reason for the campus.
4. Combien d'heures par semaine ? Quelles dates ?	The exact figures from the school letter, in 60-minute hours.
5. Quel master, quelle université, quel niveau exigé ?	Names, pre-registration number or coordinator email, and the language requirement.
6. Qui finance ? Quelle profession, quel revenu ?	The parent's job, employer and income, and the blocked amount.
7. Où allez-vous loger ?	The address and dates from the booking, and whether it's paid.
8. Que ferez-vous à la fin du cours ?	SIELE/DELE → admission → master's permit application before [date] (from Spain or Tunis); if not admitted, return on [date].
9. Et après le master ?	Your concrete professional plan.
10. Avez-vous de la famille en Espagne ?	The truthful answer. Hiding it counts as bad faith.
11. Avez-vous déjà eu un refus de visa ?	The truthful answer, and what has changed since.
12. Pourquoi ne pas apprendre l'espagnol à l'Institut Cervantes de Tunis ?	Your true reason from Part 2, item 8: hours per week, immersion, hours already done in Tunis.
13. ¿Puede presentarse en español?	3 or 4 simple sentences: name, studies, plan.
